Master's Program for Future Global Leaders in Environmental Policy (MGLEP)

The Master's Program for Future Global Leaders in Environmental Policy (MGLEP), funded by the Ministry of Climate, Energy and Environment of Korea (KMCEE), is designed to support a graduate studies program for government officials working in environmental or related fields in Korea's partner countries.

The main goal of MGLEP is to train key personnel with the capacity to lead sustainable economic and social development in our partner countries by sharing Korea's know-how and experience in environmental improvement.

KME launched the program in 2015 in response to demand from its partner countries for long-term capacity-building programs discussed during high-level meetings and through the Ministry's international cooperation network.

The program aims to contribute to capacity-building in environmental policy in partner countries by enabling participants to experience Korea's development process, gain specialized knowledge in the environmental field through intensive training, and strengthen their ability to develop and analyze policy.

As the host of the program, KME will make its best effort to support MGLEP participants not only in expanding their knowledge of environmental policy and technology, but also in building valuable networks and experiencing Korean culture, society, and history through this invitation program for officials from our partner countries.

International Cooperation & Exhibition Team of Korea Environmental Conservation Institute (KECI)

The Korea Environmental Conservation Institute (KECI), a public institution under the Ministry of Climate, Energy and Environment, was officially rebranded from the former Korea Environmental Preservation Association in June 2023, pursuant to the Framework Act on Environmental Policy originally enacted in 1978. KECI serves as a specialized agency committed to advancing environmental conservation through a range of strategic initiatives.

The International Cooperation & Exhibition Team at KECI promotes inclusive and systematic environmental education under the vision of "a learning society for the environment." The team supports policy implementation, develops customized programs, enhances educator capacity, operates certification systems, and fosters nationwide networks to cultivate environmentally responsible citizens.

Under the vision of "a global green partnership platform for a sustainable future," KECI also manages the Master's Program for Future Global Leaders in Environmental Policy. This graduate-level program is designed for foreign government officials and aims to share Korea's environmental knowledge and experiences while strengthening long-term international partnerships.

Hub of 'International Networking' for Global Experts

Shin LEE
Dean of ISUS, University of Seoul

Welcome to ISUS. In the midst of rapid urbanization during the process of compressed economic growth, our country has accumulated unique experiences and know-how in the urban development and administration field.

Such urban growth of the Republic of Korea has helped gain the attention of many countries abroad hoping for an opportunity of sharing the experience.

Meanwhile, although our construction companies have won a high reputation in infrastructure development such as road, harbor, and plant construction, the turning point for a qualitative take-off has become necessary as the competition with other development-pursuing countries intensified.

Like so, having the domestic and foreign demand into consideration, providing a comprehensive solution relative to the urban development and management with our experience and know-how's and opening the way to the comprehensive package of urban development for the whole world has become a national agenda that we must pursue. During the process, we anticipate further overseas expansion of the Korean construction companies by the development of new modules.

The University of Seoul, which pioneered through the research and education of urban-related fields, has met such demands of the current era by establishing the International School of Urban Sciences with the goal of fostering global city professionals in 2012. On one hand, we educate domestic city professionals so that they will be able to advance towards overseas urban development and management fields, and on the other hand, we provide foreign public officials the opportunity to learn and experience Korea first-handedly by managing the International Urban Development Program (IUPD). In addition, our graduate school will be the platform on which domestic professionals and foreign public officials cultivate global insight by interacting with each other and creating an international network.

The ISUS is committed to establishing itself as the center of research and international cooperation in the area of urban sciences.

We expect your continued interest and support.

Thank you.
