| | One of the main responsibilities of AIBO is to implement human resources development and cooperation projects, especially training courses for officials. The Academy serves as the main base for China's foreign aid training, offering both off-line and on-line training in China and overseas. Backed by the Ministry of Commerce and in close cooperation with China's top think tanks, research institutes and universities, AIBO brings together a large number of China's top experts and scholars to provide intellectual support for foreign aid training. It has developed a number of high-quality foreign aid training projects in the fields of trade and investment, international economic cooperation, governance and public management, which have proved to be fruitful. Since 1998, AIBO has successfully held over 2,500 training sessions for officials from developing countries (including 137 ministerial seminars), benefiting nearly 75,000 participants from other developing countries around the world. AIBO will adhere to the guidance of Xi Jinping Thought on Socialism with Chinese Characteristics for a New Era, and take the important concepts, including a community with a shared future for mankind, pursuing the greater good and shared interests, and sincerity, real results, amity, good faith, mutual benefit and inclusiveness, as strategic guidance and fundamental principles to be followed. It will facilitate the joint efforts in implementing major initiatives such as the Belt and Road Initiative and the Global Development Initiative, and continue to help developing countries accelerate their development by sharing China's experience and programs. |
| About the Seminar | Background: China and ASEAN are good friends who trust each other politically, and are good partners pursuing mutual benefit and win-win results economically. In 2021, China and ASEAN announced the establishment of a comprehensive strategic partnership. The two sides have developed closer political relations, more dynamic economic and trade cooperation, and deeper people-to-people exchanges. Infrastructure provides important support for economic and social development and is of strategic, fundamental and pioneering importance. Infrastructure connectivity can promote the development of trade and technology, optimize regional economic structure, expand economic scale and market, and improve people's living standards. Based on its own development experience and technological advantages, China has supported ASEAN countries in building a large number of transportation infrastructure projects to help them achieve connectivity and integrate into the global value chain. Purpose: The seminar aims to share China's programs and experience in infrastructure connectivity to strengthen international cooperation in infrastructure connectivity between |

| About the Seminar | Background: Energy is an important material basis and driving force for economic and social development. As the United Nations' 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development is moved forward, the international community is paying increasing attention to the construction of a global energy governance system and energy innovation. In recent years, China has actively implemented the Paris Agreement, pledging to peak carbon emissions by 2030 and achieve carbon neutrality by 2060, and has developed a series of experience and practices in dual-carbon strategic planning and the development of green energy. Strengthening exchanges of experience in energy governance and building consensus on green development will be more conducive to transitioning to a low-carbon and diversified economy and promoting harmonious coexistence between human and nature. | |

It will facilitate the joint efforts in implementing major initiatives such as the Belt and Road Initiative (BRI) and the Global Development Initiative (GDI), and continue to help developing countries accelerate their development by sharing China's experience and programs. | |
| About the Project | Background: Cultural trade is an integral part of international trade and an important way for countries and regions to spread culture to the outside world. Digital technology has been integrated into the cultural industry, forming digital cultural trade. This provides a broad market and space for economic and social development, as well as opportunities for non-traditional talents to start businesses and innovate. China's digital cultural trade has formed a pattern of innovation in which multi-modal products empower each other and domestic and foreign business models are linked in online literature, online games and e-sports, as well as online films and TV dramas including short videos and micro-dramas. Purpose: The seminar aims to help developing countries create a new development space for cultural trade innovation, help them understand the global value chain and ecosystem of digital cultural and creative industries based on the Internet, and provide reference for practitioners in the field of cultural trade. Content: The topics of the seminar will mainly cover China's national conditions, Chinese leaders' ideas on governance, shared values between China and the world, China's experience in reform, opening up and economic development, typical cases of China's digital cultural and creative industries, the Digital Exploration Think Tank of the Palace Museum, the transformation of Beijing Winter Olympics cultural heritage, digital cultural trade, etc. Methods: Invite experts in related fields to give special lectures on different themes; organize discussions and exchanges between trainees and experts and among trainees; and organize trainees to pay field visits to relevant organizations and enterprises in Beijing and other cities. (The above is a preliminary schedule, which may be adjusted based on the actual situation. The final version will be provided after your arrival in China.) | |
